About

Gary Wohlman, PhD

I am a communication skills coach.

I specialise in helping people express their ideas and opinions effectively.

With an excellent understanding of the personal and professional development industry, I have developed a revolutionary technique which helps people find their true voice. This innovative approach to generating breakthroughs in communication not only transforms people's presentations, yet also their presence to life in general.

I bring an added dimension to presentation skills working on the inner person to help bring out people's essential and authentic selves. Through my simple streamlined system, swift shifts sustain.

Having a Doctorate in Transpersonal Psychology and years of specialist practice, I have identified the key elements of interpersonal effectiveness. I have a track record working with CEOs, managing directors, professional presenters and senior executive teams in organisations all over the world.

Content

Do you find it almost as stressful preparing a speech as delivering one?

I will show you how to turn speech preparation into a breeze. I can provide an architecture and structure that will show how to ride the waves of the highs and lows in preparing and delivering a speech.

Engagement

Become a speaker who stands in front of an audience and commands instant attention.

I'll show you how to create rapport and maximise your connection with both yourself and your audience. In doing so, your listeners will feel they are as important to your presentation as the information you have to share.

Aliveness

Imagine your listeners inspired and motivated by the way you have communicated your ideas with ease, vitality and focused attention.

I show ways to recognise, release and redirect energy that used to be caught up in holding onto fixed, rigid and stuck points-of-view, positions and postures in your mind and your body. I work with you physically to ensure that your body is in sync. You will learn to liberate a greater fluidity of ideas and expression -- and bring both you and your presentation to life as never before.

Mission

I leave people feeling thrilled -- with renewed zing, zest and sizzle -- so they recognise and reconnect their inner purpose with their outer expression ~ with everything they think, say and do.

Values

My work is based on the values of authenticity, integrity and integration, self-expression and personal power.

I believe that there is no better time for each and every one of us to develop into a masterful speaker. You will see how taking charge of your relationship to your world can change it, and change it for the better.

Unlock your true self and speak from the heart, on every stage of your life!

- Streamline speech preparation
- Generate greater rapport and audience participation
- Enjoy more engaging, dynamic and confident delivery
- Strengthen stage presence and authenticity
- Maximise impact of voice, gestures and message
